Murder Medicine And Motherhood

Lydia Estes Pinkham (February 9, 1819 – May 17, 1883) was an American inventor and marketer of an herbal-alcoholic "women's tonic" for menstrual and menopausal problems, which medical experts dismissed as a quack remedy, but which is still on sale today in a modified form.. It was the aggressive marketing of Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that raised its profile, while also rallying the skeptics.

The battle captured by the slogan "my body, my choice!" is not new; it has been raging over a century. A cartoon in the May 1919 issue of Margaret Sanger's Birth Control Review shows a woman being crushed by a giant roll of paper labeled "Laws Controlling Women's Bodies." Another offensive but equally common slogans pro-abortionists use are variations are the indignant demand ...
